On Friday, 8/5/16 at approximately 7pm, a woman was walking her small dog along the Sammamish River Trail near Marymoor Park when the suspect jumped from the bushes, grabbed her, and dragged her into the bushes to the east of the trail. He violently assaulted her resulting in multiple bruises, dislocated limb and a broken bone. He told her he would kill her. A passer-by heard her screams and the suspect fled.

The location of the attack was relatively deserted despite a concert taking place just across the river, at Marymoor Park. It was hidden from the traffic on W Lk Sammamish Pkwy NE by a concrete wall that is at least 4 ft tall at street level and 7 ft+ at trail level.

Investigation has led detectives to believe the attacker may be homeless or transient and may be camping somewhere nearby.
